PRESS RELEASE

Pray Construction to Renovate 6th Floor of Laidley Tower, Housing New Infor Office for U.S. Government Agencies

Infor anticipates bringing 100 technical jobs to Charleston

Charleston, West Va., May 16, 2019 – Pray Construction Company today announced that it is partnering with Infor, a global leader in business cloud software specialized by industry, and Petroplus & Associates, property manager of Laidley Tower, to renovate the building's sixth floor to house Infor's new office serving U.S. Government Agencies (at the federal, state and local level). Pray Construction will renovate about 12,000 square feet of space for the office, which Infor plans to open in late August. Pray is pleased to continue to work with Aric Margolis, the project architect.

Pray Construction just completed a two-floor renovation for Huntington National Bank and continues to provide quality work for Petroplus and tenants in Laidley Tower.

Infor anticipates that it will hire 100 technical employees in Charleston in the disciplines of software engineering, cloud operations, and consulting and support services to support its public sector customers. With more than 17,000 employees and over 68,000 customers, Infor offers purpose-built software applications for select industries, including the public sector.

“Pray Construction is thrilled to offer our services to Infor and proud to help create the space for Infor's major cloud operations center in Charleston,” said Mark Grigsby, President, at Pray Construction. “We look forward to providing Infor with quality workmanship and a professional and responsive project team.”
